Child-lifting Assam Rising Guwahati, July 28 :

Two women were apprehended at Gauhati Medical College Hospital (GMCH) for allegedly being involved in child-lifting. According to sources, the duo was caught red-handed by security personnel on Wednesday. The accused women have been identified as Pramila Deka and Bijita Das, sources informed. Meanwhile, a case under relevant sections has been registered against the alleged child-lifters.

Toll gates Assam Rising Guwahati, July 28 :

At least four toll gates in Assam are likely to be shut down as the toll gates have been established by violating the guidelines prescribed by the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI). The toll gates which are likely to be closed down soon are Sonapur toll gate, Madanpur, Galia and Mikirati Hawgaon toll gate. These toll gates in Assam that have been violating the NHAI guidelines are likely to be shut down by the union road ministry soon. There are as many as 189 toll gates in India that have been violating the 60-kilometre rule laid down by the NHAI.

Monkeypox New Delhi, July 28 :

The World Health Organization (WHO) said that there have been more than 18,000 cases of monkeypox reported globally from 78 countries, with the majority in Europe, and asked the at-risk men to "reduce their number of sexual partners". At a media briefing, WHO Director-General Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said that so far, 98% of monkeypox cases outside the countries in Africa where the virus is endemic have been reported in men who have sex with men. He urged that group to consider reducing the number of new sexual partners and swapping contact details with any new partners. "More than 18,000 cases of monkeypox have now been reported to WHO from 78 countries, with more than 70% of cases reported from the European Region, and 25% from the Region of the Americas," he said.

Eight 'jihadis' of Bangladeshi terror group Ansarul Islam held in Assam: CM Himanta Biswa Sarma

Assam Rising

Seven others, suspected to be linkmen of the same outfit were also nabbed in Morigaon district. Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said two major terror modules were busted in the state in a 'nationally coordinated operation'. Morigaon/Barpeta/Guwahati: Twelve alleged Jihadis, with links to the Bangladesh-based terror group Ansarul Islam, were arrested from Assam's Barpeta and Morigaon districts, police officers said on Thursday. Seven others, suspected to be linkmen of the same outfit were also nabbed in Morigaon district. Eight more persons having alleged links with jihadi organisations have been arrested in Moirabari in Assam's Morigaon district on Thursday. The linkmen were arrested after the Morigaon Police conducted search operations at the Sarusola Girls Madrasa. The linkmen have been arrested for interrogation. Earlier today, the police arrested a jihadi linkman identified as Mufti Mustafa, the head of Jamiulhuda Madrasa at Moirabari. He had alleged links with terror outfit Al-Qaeda. The police seized various documents including a bank passbook and mobile phones from Mustafa's possession. The Madrasa was also sealed by the police. Meanwhile, another linkman identified as Afsarul has been arrested from Milanpur in Morigaon. Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said two major terror modules were busted in the state. The Assam Police on Wednesday arrested Abbas Ali, 22, from Pakhiura village at Goalpara district, for allegedly providing shelter to an Ansarulhuda Bangla Team (ABT) member at home, busting a sleeper cell module. "During investigation, we found that Ali had

28 MLAs Issued Reminders for Vacating Quarters by July 31

As many as 28 MLAs, who are yet to vacate their official quarters in the Assam Legislative Assembly complex, have been served a reminder by the assembly secretariat to shift to alternative accommodation by July 31 after which electricity and water supply will be disconnected. As many as 54 Assam-type quarters built in the 70s for ministers and MLAs and when Assam's capital was shifted to Guwahati from Shillong, which are in dilapidated conditions, are being dismantled. The state government plans to construct three to four multi-storey towers at the same location in three years. The new project will also have ample space for developing a park, cycling zone and open space along with the towers. The 54 MLAs have been informed about the dismantling work in April and urged them to arrange for alternative accommodation in the city. These legislators have also been given a house rent allowance of Rs. 50,000 per month. Principal Secretary Hemen Das said that a process was initiated in April to construct new buildings for upgrading the hostels of 54

Crores recovered from Arpita Mukherjee's flat, but Partha Chatterjee has No house, No car

New Delhi, July 28 :

Wednesday afternoon to Thursday morning — ED claims, in a 19-hour operation, cash of Rs 27 crore 90 lakh was recovered from the house of Partha Chatterjee's 'Intimate Friend' Arpita Mukherjee at Belgharia. Earlier on Friday, ED claimed that Rs 21 crore 90 lakh was recovered from Arpita's Tollygunge flat. That is, 49.8 crore rupees in all. Now the question is, is he really have so much money? Although this money was recovered from his 'Intimate Friend's' house, Arpita claims that all the money found belongs to Partha. But ED has not revealed anything yet. According to sources, Arpita made such a claim to the ED officials during the interrogation. She also claimed that she did not know how much money was kept in his house. Arpita said that Partha's men used to come and deposit money there. Not only that, she had no right to enter the room where this money was kept. Speculations have been made after this allegation.

The question is, is this money really belongs to the former education minister of the state? However, the account of the affidavit that Partha submitted to the Election Commission during the 2021 assembly elections says otherwise. In the affidavit submitted by Partha to the Election Commission,

Tea Production Down By 20 % Due To Heavy Rain

Guwahati, July 28 :

Following heavy rainfall in Assam, the arrival of tea to the Guwahati Tea Auction Centre (GTAC) got reduced by around 8 million kilograms in June and July. The GTAC informed that 90.85 million kg and 103.24 million kg of tea arrived in June and July last year. Dinesh Bihani, the Secretary of the Guwahati Tea Auction Buyer's Association (GTABA) said that the crop production has reduced by 20 per cent during the last two months as the state faced heavy rainfall. "This means, we will be having a shortfall of around 39 million kg but by July, we will be having the total crop production similar to the year 2021 production. Till May 2022, we have seen around 38.90 million kg crop being in excess production," Bihani said. He also asserted that the Indian tea market is currently in demand and the price of tea was also appreciated by Rs 15-20 on the good quality tea. "Now the situation has turned and there is a strong demand on orthodox grade teas where the auction prices have increased by more than Rs crisis engulfing China's real estate sector continues to worsen, a billionaire index showed on Thursday. Yang Huiyan, a majority shareholder in China's biggest property developer Country Garden, saw her net worth plunge by more than 52% to $11.3bn from $23.7bn a year ago, according to the Bloomberg Billionaires Index. In a sign that the crisis is spreading to developers previously thought to be rock solid, Yang's fortune took a major hit on Wednesday when the Guangdong-based Country Garden's Hong Kong-listed shares fell 15% after the company announced it would sell new shares to raise cash. Yang inherited her wealth when her father - Country Garden founder Yang Guoqiang - transferred his shares to her in 2005, according to state media. She became Asia's richest woman two years later after the developer's initial public offering in Hong Kong. But she is now barely holding on to that title, with chemical fibres tycoon Fan

Hongwei a close runner-up with a net worth of $11.2bn on Thursday. Chinese authorities cracked down on excessive debt in the property sector in 2020, leaving major players such as Evergrande and Sunac struggling to make payments and forcing them to renegotiate with creditors as they teetered on the edge of bankruptcy. Buyers across the country, furious at lagging construction and delayed deliveries of their properties, have begun withholding mortgage payments for homes sold before completion. While Country Garden has remained relatively unscathed by industry turmoil, it spooked investors with an announcement on Wednesday that it planned to raise more than $343m through a share sale, partly to pay debts. Proceeds from the sale would be used for "refinancing existing offshore indebtedness, general working capital and future development purposes", Country Garden said in a filing to the Hong Kong stock exchange. China's banking regulator has urged lenders to support the property sector and meet the "reasonable financing needs" of firms as analysts and policymakers fear financial contagion. The property sector is estimated to account for 18-30% of the country's GDP and is a key driver of growth in the world's second-largest economy. Analysts have warned that the industry is mired in a "vicious cycle" that would further dampen consumer confidence, following the release of dismal Q2 growth figures that were the worst since the start of the Covid-19 pandemic.

been recorded at 1.20 per cent. The active cases comprise 0.33 per cent of the total infections, while the national COVID-19 recovery rate was recorded at 98.47 per cent, the ministry said. The daily positivity rate stood at 5.18 per cent and the weekly positivity rate at 4.71 per cent, the ministry said. The cumulative doses administered under the nationwide Covid-19 vaccination drive has exceeded 203.21 crore on Thursday at 8 am, out of which 42,20,625 doses were administered in last 24 hours. The 44 new fatalities include 12 from Kerala, eight from Maharashtra, five from West Bengal, two each from Delhi, Jammu and Kashmir, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Manipur and Tripura and one each from Assam, Chandigarh, Chhattisgarh, Himachal Pradesh, Mizoram, Odisha and Sikkim.

Australian mountain climber Matthew Eakin one of two men found dead on K2

Melbourn, July 28 : An Australian and a Canadian climber have been found dead on K2, with the world's second-highest mountain in Pakistan claiming at least three lives in recent weeks. The Himalayan Times identified the Australian mountaineer as Matthew Eakin and the Canadian climber as Richard Cartier, after reports the two had gone missing last week during their descent from Camp 2 to Camp 1. Rescuers spotted the bodies of the two mountaineers on Tuesday, the Times report said. A spokesperson from the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade has confirmed the death but not the man's identity. The Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade is providing consular assistance to the family of an Australian man who died during a climbing expedition in northern Pakistan, the spokesperson said. "We extend our condolences to his family and friends. Owing to our privacy obligations we are unable to provide further comment." Pajhwok Afghan News, Afghanistan's largest independent news agency, reported that Afghan mountain climber Ali Akbar Sakhi also died on K2 last week, suffering a heart attack while descending the mountain. Eakin, from Sydney, was on an expedition along with Cartier and another Canadian, Justin Dube-Fahmy. Dube-Fahmy had been providing updates on the group's trek on his personal Facebook page, with the last post made on 21 July: "Richard, Matt and I were pretty tired. 16h of climbing. Then today we touched lower C4 (7600m). We are heading back to Base Camp tomorrow. It's starting to get cold. We are pretty tired after these two big days." Neither Dube-Fahmy's post nor page has been updated with any news of the deaths but people have started leaving messages of condolences. Matthew Eakin's LinkedIn account shows the climber had previously been a tax solicitor, volunteered at the Black Dog Institute for a year, and studied finance and law at the University of Canberra. The family of Cartier, a palliative care physician from Quebec, told Canada's CTV that he "lived fully to the end". "As Richard said so well in his work in palliative care, 'People die the way they lived.' This was the case for Richard," the statement read. CTV News is reporting Cartier was considered one of the best and most experienced mountain climbers in Canada, so many people are "shocked to hear he and his partner fell and died". One of Eakin's friends in Pakistan, Kashif Ali, posted on social media about waking up to the "sad news that my friend Matthew Eakin was ... found dead on K2". "I still can't believe it that he is no more with us. This is really tragic news, Matthew Eakin was the founder of the excellent FB page Mountaineers Downunder and has made a huge contribution to the mountaineering community in Australia. 'We will miss you forever great legend' 'Climb and Wine' a climbing community group formed to encourage women to build skills and knowledge, shared the news of Eakin's death, remembering his support." Matt supported many in our community to develop skills and confidence in the adventure world and was always available to share his knowledge to anyone with passion to learn," the statement said.

New Delhi, July 28 : Trinamool Congress (TMC) spokesperson Kunal Ghosh on Thursday (July 28, 2022) demanded that West Bengal minister Partha Chatterjee be removed from Mamata Banerjee's cabinet and all party posts "immediately". Taking to his official Twitter, a day after the recovery of huge cash from one of the flats linked to Arpita Mukherjee, considered a close associate of arrested West Bengal Industry Minister Partha Chatterjee, Ghosh said that "he should be expelled". "Partha Chatterjee should be removed from ministry and all party posts immediately. He should be expelled. If this statement considered wrong, party has every right to remove me from all posts. I shall continue as a soldier of TMC," he tweeted. Chatterjee has been arrested by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in connection with a West Bengal school jobs scam. He is currently in ED custody. Earlier on Wednesday, Ghosh had hoped that the party would take note of the public perception as the recovery of cash from Partha Chatterjee's aide's home has brought "disgrace" to party and "shame to all of us". His comments come in the backdrop of the ED recovering nearly Rs 28 crore in cash, at least 5 kg gold and several land deeds from Arpita's residence. According to news reports, not just in the rooms, money was stashed also in the flat's bathroom.

The unaccounted money was found five days after the agency seized more than Rs 21 crore in cash, besides jewellery and foreign exchange, from another flat of Mukherjee, who was also arrested on July 23. "This development is a matter of great concern. Such incidents have brought disgrace to the party and shame to all of us. He (Partha Chatterjee) is saying why he would quit as minister. Why is he not saying in the public domain that he is innocent? What is stopping him from doing that?" "I hope the party would take note of the public perception and take appropriate steps," Ghosh said. Earlier, Ghosh had said that it has to be seen how Partha Chatterjee sheds the tag of being "influential" without quitting as a minister of several departments. The CBI, as directed by the Calcutta High Court, is probing the alleged irregularities committed in the recruitment of Group-C and D staff as well as teachers in government-sponsored and aided schools on recommendations of the West Bengal School Service Commission (SSC). The ED is tracking the money trail in the scam. Chatterjee was the education minister when the alleged irregularities took place.

Justice department gets warrant to search Trump lawyer's phone

Washington, July 28 : The US justice department said on Wednesday it had obtained a warrant to search the phone of Donald Trump's election attorney, John Eastman, who spoke at a rally before the January 6 assault on the US Capitol. Federal agents seized Eastman's phone in June based on a warrant authorizing them to take the device. They needed a second warrant to search the phone's contents. In a filing with US district court in New Mexico, the assistant US attorney Thomas Windom said the US district court for the District of Columbia issued a search warrant on 12 July authorizing review of the phone's contents and manual screen capture. He said federal agents in northern Virginia had the phone and screenshots of some of its contents. Eastman has been under intense scrutiny in the investigations into the attack on the Capitol by Trump supporters after the former president falsely claimed that he had won the 2020 election. Eastman spoke at the rally where Trump gave a fiery speech alleging election fraud and urging supporters to march on the Capitol. Eastman also wrote a memo outlining how, in his view, Mike Pence could thwart formal congressional certification of Trump's re-election loss. The then vice-president declined to follow Eastman's advice.

CM Dr. Sarma holds a review meeting with DFOs, Treasury Officers and ADCs

Asks functionaries to use technological gadgets to stop encroachment of forest land

Assam Rising, Guwahati, July 28: Chief Minister Dr. Himanta Biswa Sarma today held a meeting with the DFOs of Territorial Divisions of Environment and Forest Department, Treasury Officers and ADCs (Revenue) at Assam Administrative Staff College and initiated a detailed discussion as to how judiciously forest resources can be used to bolster state's development. During the meeting besides putting emphasis on the conservation of the forest resources, Chief Minister Dr. Sarma laid importance and asked the functionaries of the Environment and Forest Department for a prudent utilization of forest resources to aid to sustainable development of the state. To maintain constant surveillance and work against the encroachment of the forest land, he reiterated on the extensive use of technical gadgets for drone survey and satellite imagery. The Chief Minister also reviewed the on-going plantation programme being carried out across the state and asked the DFOs to successfully conduct the programme for a clean and green Assam. He also asked them to take special care to ensure survival of the saplings after their plantation. Dr. Sarma asked the concerned functionaries to dig at least five fisheries in each forest division. Environment and Forest Minister Chandra Mohan Patowary, Additional Chief Secretary Environment and Forest Ravi Shankar Prasad, Principal Secretary to the Chief Minister Samir Kumar Sinha and other senior officers of the government were present at the meeting.

Meritorious students felicitated in Nagaon

Assam Rising, Nagaon, July 28: Asom Chatra Parishad and Asom Yuva Parishad, the two brother organization of Asom Gana Parishad (AGP) felicitated the meritorious students who cleared HSLC as well as HS Final Examination this year with flying colours from the district here at a function held at Nagaon district library auditorium today. The felicitation programme was chaired by Moni Madhab Mahanta, the district president of Asom Gana Parishad. Noted academician and former vice chancellor of Mahapurush Srimanta Shankardev Vishwavidyalaya, Dr Hitesh Deka and state health minister Keshab Mahanta graced the occasion as guests. While addressing the occasion, Dr Deka insisted on social responsibility of the students instead of their records of academic achievements. Referring to the top 10 record in examination, Dr Deka said that the concept of such 'stand' or 'rank holder in top-10' is a mere error in the system. "I never seek such position holders who neglect their ailing parents later at their old-age and abandon on the street after getting a beautiful job", Dr Deka said adding further that he preferred such human resources who would take care of their respective parents later at the crucial hours of their lives although he or she could carry only the second or third division in HS Final or HSLC Examination. The state health minister Keshab Mahanta also spoke on the occasion and urged the students fraternity to concentrate themselves in their aims of life. He said that students should learn to love themselves first to attain their respective goals and for that they must take the adequate decision in the very beginning. Former AGP minister and party's senior leader of the district Girindra Kr Boruah, president of Asom Yuva Parishad Jitu Borgohain, president of Asom Chatra Parishad Trinoyan Boruah were also present in the felicitation programme and spoke on the occasion. The programme was anchored by the president and secretary of the district unit of Asom Yuva Parishad respectively Dipujal Rajkhowa and Kashyap Phukan.

Talk on 'Community Engagement in Healthcare' held at USTM

Assam Rising, Guwahati, July 28: At the heart of the process of strengthening community action is the empowerment of communities – their ownership and control of their own endeavours and intentions. This was stated by Prof. Dr. Liaquat Ali, Former Vice Chancellor, Bangladesh University of Health Sciences (BUHS) here today while addressing a workshop on "Community Engagement for Universal Health Coverage Delivery of Preventive Care & Quality Health Care" organized by Internal Quality Assurance Cell of the University of Science and Technology Meghalaya. Dr Ali also addressed a Faculty Development Programme on "Role of Teachers in Institution Building and Quality Delivery" at USTM. Dr Liaquat Ali is a member of the expert group of regional and global leaders in PHC constituted by WHO SEARO. Currently, he is the Honorary Chief Scientist and Advisor, Pothokrit Institute of Health Studies, Bangladesh. Addressing the participants of the workshop, he said that community engagement focuses on 'Universal Health Coverage', 'Preventive Care' & 'Quality Health Care'. He nicely explained the impact of Sociology on Health Sciences and also explained the reason behind the increasing number of suicidal cases and what measures should be taken. He also mentioned that the Govt. of India has permitted the Primary Health Care Drive in the Health System. Universal Health Coverage (UHC) is not only about individual treatment services, but also includes population-based services such as public health campaigns, adding fluoride to water, controlling mosquito breeding grounds, among others. This is a change that is being demanded by patients and clients to move away from healthcare delivery that has often been hierarchical, provider-driven and depersonalized, toward increased involvement of patients in the direction of their own care. These demands include mechanisms for patients, family members and communities to influence health system interactions, design, and policy. The types of problems addressed by community engagement include: behavioral, cultural and social conditions (such as vaccination during outbreak response, awareness on harmful products, exclusion, gender-bias, drunk-driving); health system determinants (such as access to appropriate and acceptable primary health care services, information and programs for communicable and non-communicable disease, new outlets for mental health services); prerequisites for health (such as unemployment, lack of housing, lack of water and sanitation projects, lack of access of girls to education, food security) and upstream driving forces (such as poverty, poor working conditions, climate change, environmental degradation, demographic change, rapid and unplanned urbanization). Earlier, delivering the welcome address, Dr. B. K. Das, Pro VC, USTM explained the importance of the topic of discussion and why we need community engagement. Dr. R. K. Sharma, Advisor, USTM also addressed the programme.

VOL. NO. VII, ISSUE NO. 162 FRIDAY, JULY 29, 2022

Indo-China relation

On June 15, 2020, Indian and Chinese troops engaged in a brawl that left twenty Indian soldiers dead while causing an unspecified number of Chinese casualties. The clash is a part of a broader border standoff along the Galwan River between the two forces on the Line of Actual Control that is yet to be resolved. The Indian strategic community is broadly in agreement that this border dispute marks an implacable decline in India-China ties. They argue that the very basis of relations that emerged after former Indian prime minister Rajiv Gandhi's visit to Beijing in 1988 has been shaken, if not destroyed. Yet, how did the two countries manage to reach this nadir in ties, and furthermore, what does the Galwan clash signify for the future of Sino-Indian relations? This paper argues that, long before the present border dispute occurred, Sino-Indian relations had been steadily declining due to rampant misperceptions of the other side, contributing to a lack of trust. The most fundamental misperception between the two countries is the inability to comprehend each other's international ambitions, yielding the fear that their foreign policies are targeted against the other. This paper traces the impact and development of these misperceptions on Sino-Indian ties through three different phases before considering the future of the relationship after the Galwan dispute. The first phase is the period immediately after the 2008 financial crisis, when China reoriented its foreign policy to accommodate its growing global ambitions. As China expanded its global role, it did not consider the implications of its actions on India. As a consequence, its new foreign policy was not well received in New Delhi, sparking a fear that China was attempting to undermine India's interests. In turn, New Delhi's counter to these policies fostered an antagonistic response in Beijing, which did not understand how its new foreign policy affected India's international interests. This set of interactions marked the first indication of the growing misperceptions and ensuing lack of trust characterizing Sino-Indian relations. The second phase explores Beijing and New Delhi's new leadership and how this change hardened mutual suspicions about the other's foreign policy. As Prime Minister Narendra Modi instituted a new direction in Indian foreign policy, China's perception that New Delhi was trying to contain China hardened. Despite the Modi government's desire to continue the previous administration's emphasis on strong Sino-Indian relations, its Neighborhood First policy and closer ties with the United States were perceived negatively in China. Corresponding with these perceptions was Beijing's growing assertiveness vis-à-vis India, symbolized in the 2017 border standoff at Doklam and China's increased naval activity in the Indian Ocean. These actions convinced New Delhi that despite its efforts, China was not sensitive to India's international interests while also building a negative impression of Chinese President Xi Jinping's government.

A young courageous journalist Abhijit Chaliha

Sanjib Kumar Ray,
Bongaigaon

I have been writing in Assamese and English daily since my Early College days. So I could make friends with many journalists from different newspaper groups. I was surprised when the editor-in-chief of the newspaper telephoned me appreciating my article or letter. Another incident happened on a certain day last winter. A phone call came to me from an English daily newspaper. That phone call was from Abhijit Chaliha who is the News Editor of The Assam Rising- a leading English daily of Assam. Mr. Chaliha has communicated with many high level people such as PM Narendra Modi, Assam CM, interviewed with many eminent personalities from different fields, ULFA Commander-in-Chief Paresh Baruah had several telephonic talks with this journalist discussing the ULFA issue etc. As this journalist is very young and dynamic, I couldn't control my curiosity to know more about him. As per my research and information gathered from different sources, I bring out lots of information about him. Abhijit Chaliha had started his career as a Medical Representative in Ozone Pharmaceutical in 2009 prior to journalism. Later he worked in India's reputed drug companies like HIMALAYADRUUG COMPANY, LUPIN PHARMACEUTICAL, Dr. REDDY'S and SIGNUTRA as a medical representative, interestingly all these companies are India's top ranking pharma companies. After completing six years as a successful medical representative he got promoted as an Area Manager in multinational pharmaceutical companies like SIGNOVA PHARMA, MICRO LAB etc. Chaliha was a national level star performer in the pharmaceutical field. For extraordinary performances he got recognized in Dubai, Beijing, Singapore. But due to his keen desire and interest in the field of journalism he resigned his former jobs and joined as a reporter. As he has required qualification in the field of journalism and mass communication also, so it didn't hamper him to set foot in the field of journalism. He had done his master degree in journalism and mass communication under Dibrugarh University. Having resigned those above mentioned jobs he joined UA TV at Dibrugarh as a reporter (a cable TV channel in upper Assam). Simultaneously he joined Asoniya Pratidin (a leading Assamese daily) as a reporter in Dibrugarh Town. Later he worked in Agradoot, Ajir Asom etc. In the year 2013 Chaliha joined Prag News (a satellite Assamese TV channel) as a reporter at Dibrugarh district HQ.

Moreover he was a casual announcer of All India Radio, Dibrugarh. From 2018 to 2020 Chaliha had been working as Bureau Chief of Lower Assam in TNI agency (a leading News and Current Affairs Agency of India) based at New Delhi. Presently Chaliha is working as News Editor in The Assam Rising (an English daily) published from Guwahati and Editor-in-Chief of web portal 'The Reveal'. Abhijit Chaliha set his name in Assam Book of Record for his smallest poetry book "Preetiloi Emuthi Kabita" in the Assamese language measuring 5 cm height and 3.5 cm breadth which almost looks like a match box. Despite his busy schedule Chaliha has authored six books so far apart from writing poems, articles in various newspapers, magazines and other digital platforms. It is surprising that a young gentleman who could achieve so much in his very early age, this qualified figure was born at Anguri village under Lakhimpur district who now has capability of leading the journalism aspirants. Morning shows the day so it can be affirmed that this young journalist has a great future. May God bless him.

When Defence Minister Rajnath Singh announced setting up "joint theatre commands in the country" last week, he was making a political statement merely reiterating a decision taken two-and-a-half years ago. In reality, the issue has been on the back burner ever since the untimely death of Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat in December 2021. There is political and military consensus on the need for joint theatre commands. However, a lingering contentious issue is the role of the Indian Air Force (IAF). There was a public spat at a seminar between the CDS and the Chief of Air Staff wherein the former called the IAF a "supporting arm" of the armed forces and the latter retorted, "It is not a supporting role alone. The airpower has a huge role to play. In any of the integrated battle areas, it's not an issue of support alone." Recently, the incumbent IAF chief, Air Chief Marshal V.R. Chaudhary, once again reiterated the reservations of the IAF: "...creation of [a defence] command may prove counterproductive because air defence operations are inextricably linked to counter air operations and all offensive [operations], as the success or failure of one will dictate the demands on the other." The progress on establishment of theatre commands is tardy to say the least. There is a lack of strategic direction and a time bound politically monitored execution process. The appointment of CDS - the prime mover of joint theatre commands - is lying vacant for over seven months. The current approach is flawed due to a bottom up and standalone process where everything has been left to the military, which is infamous for inter-Service rivalry. Non-resolution of the genuine reservations of the IAF only proves the point. Based on public domain information, the Department of Military Affairs (DMA) has proposed the creation of three land-based theatre commands (Northern, Eastern and Western), a Maritime Theatre Command and an Air Defence Command. As far as the IAF is concerned, all air campaigns/operations will be controlled by the four theatre commanders, based on initial/reallocated resources except for the air defence resources, which will be controlled by the Air Defence Command. This model can only work with a large Air Force of 50-60 squadrons. With a force of 30 squadrons, the joint headquarters under the CDS or the COSC will have to constantly allocate/reallocate resources between the theatre commands and Air Defence Command. Basic Doctrine of

with operations of their own surface forces. This is done through air interdiction at the strategic level, battlefield air interdiction at the operational level, battlefield air strikes in proximity of own troops at the tactical level, tactical reconnaissance, and search and strike missions. Interdiction implies preventing enemy combat potential from reaching the battle area by destroying reserves, command and control means, road/railway network and logistics. At sea these take the form of air strikes on enemy shipping and maritime infrastructure. Combat enabling air operations include airborne/air transported operations, air-to-air refuelling, surveillance and reconnaissance, employment of UAVs, airborne early warning aircraft, aerostats, electronic warfare, Special Forces operations, search and rescue, training, maintenance and logistics. From the above it is obvious that 'air defence' is a relatively passive role of the IAF and the main reliance for neutralising enemy air threat is on offensive counter air operations in enemy territory. Also, counter-surface force operations and airborne/air transported/helicopter operations are the only classic "support" operations requiring intimate cooperation with surface forces. Considering the limited resources of the IAF, omni role aircraft and very meagre combat enabling platforms in the form of Airborne Warning And Control System/Airborne Early Warning and Control Aircraft, aerostats and air-to-air refuelling aircraft, the parcelling out of air effort to the theatre commanders would be counterproductive. A small Air Force like the IAF can only be optimally exploited through a concentration of effort. It is capable of generating up to 700 sorties in a day. Initially, the bulk of the effort will have to be allocated for strategic air campaign and offensive counter air operations over enemy territory, which have nothing to do with surface forces and require centralised control. In a two-front war involving Pakistan and China, the entire effort of the IAF may have to be applied against China in the first half of the day and then shift to target Pakistan in the second half. It would be more prudent to create a Strategic Air Command, which must be responsible for carrying out strategic air campaigned and counter-air campaign across all theatres. It must have an overriding lien over all resources. Since air and ground operations may commence simultaneously, initial optimum allocation of aircraft/missiles for counter-surface force campaign and for air defence in the form of surface-to-air weapon systems must be made for each theatre. All attack helicopters must be allocated to theatre commands. Tri-Service integration in the form of theatre commands is part of the transformation of the armed forces to fight the wars of the 21st century. Without a strategic review and a formal national security strategy, the transformation is without an aim and rudderless. It is the responsibility of the central government to formalise the national security strategy and the transformation strategy in consultation with the armed forces and other stakeholders. It must issue a detailed political directive for the transformation including the establishment of the theatre commands. Political intent alone cannot transform the armed forces. Empirical experience dictates direct political intervention. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the defence minister must catch the bull by the horns and assume full responsibility. Formalise a national security strategy and a transformation strategy. Set up an empowered committee under the defence minister to steer the transformation. The committee must prepare a vision document that addresses all contentious issues that have emerged and lay down the timelines. Appoint the CDS forthwith and issue a formal directive to prepare fresh, detailed proposals for transformation including creation of the theatre commands. Keep Parliament informed and ensure scrutiny through the standing committee on defence or a special committee. The transformation process must culminate with a National Security Act to ensure future accountability.

A new nuclear power station needs a vast supply of water. But where will Sizewell C get it from?

Last week, the government gave the go-ahead for a new nuclear power station to be developed on the Suffolk coast. Providing low-carbon electricity for about 6m homes, Sizewell C will stand alongside two existing stations, Sizewell B and the decommissioned Sizewell A. I live close enough to see the 60-metre tall, white dome of Sizewell B almost every day. When I want to torture myself, I look at developer EDF's "construction phase visualisations" of the 1,380-acre building site, with its towering spoil heaps and forest of cranes, and wonder if this is what it will take to save the planet. What might not have been immediately obvious in the coverage of the government's decision was that the Planning Inspectorate, tasked with assessing such projects, had recommended that permission be refused. The problem, the examiners explained, was fairly simple: EDF couldn't say exactly where it would obtain one of the main substances needed to make a nuclear power station work, that substance being water. As well as uranium, a reactor of the kind EDF plans to build needs water in very great volumes. Salt water will do for part of the process, which is one reason why nuclear power stations are usually built beside the sea. But fresh or "potable" water will also be needed - first, to cool the two reactors, and then, just as importantly, to cool the irradiated fuel once it has been removed from the hearings of the six-month public planning examination, the question of just where the developer was going to get the water to run Sizewell C, let alone build it, was becoming urgent. Those who had raised concerns about precisely this issue more than 10 years earlier would have been forgiven for feeling frustrated. As one of the driest parts of the country, Suffolk is described by the Environment Agency as "seriously water stressed". By 2043, eight years into Sizewell C's 60-year operating life, the agency anticipates a water deficit in the county of more than 7m litres a day. Northumbrian Water, which operates locally as Essex and Suffolk Water, had made it clear to EDF that there was not enough local groundwater for either construction or operation. EDF's plan, therefore, was to build a pipeline to bring water from the River Waveney, 18 miles away on the Norfolk border. During at least the first two years of construction, while the pipeline was being built, EDF planned to install a temporary desalination plant on the site to turn saltwater from the sea into fresh. Then, in August, the water company broke the news that its abstraction licenses dictating how much water it could extract from the Waveney, granted by the Environment Agency, were likely to be reduced by up to 60% to safeguard downstream levels. It subsequently confirmed that the Waveney did not, after all, have the capacity to supply water for any of the 10-year construction phase. Desalination, opponents of the project noted, was a solution EDF itself had discounted in January 2021 "due to concerns with power consumption, sustainability, cost and wastewater discharge". And yet, desalination, with all the problems it had set out (including discharging millions of litres a day of saline concentrate and phosphorus into the North Sea), remains EDF's "fallback" solution for running the station, as well as building it, if another source can't be found.

Mumbai, July 28 : Ranbir Kapoor, Vaani Kapoor and Sanjay Dutt starrer Shamshera failed to connect with the audience and turned out to be a disaster at the box office. The film gained majorly negative reviews from the critics and also faced trolling on social media. Days after, Sanjay Dutt took to social media and issued a statement to answer those who have been expressing hate about the movie. The veteran actor mentioned that it's 'horrible' to see that most of the hate is coming from the people who have not even watched Shamshera. "Films are acts of passion - passion to tell a story, to bring to life characters you've never met before. Shamshera is one such labour of love to which we gave our all. It's a movie made up of blood, sweat and tears. It's a dream that we brought on screen. Movies are made for audiences to relish. And every movie finds its viewers, sooner or later," he wrote. Dutt also heaped praises on Karan Johar and added that he will always stand by him irrespective of the fact that his movie is a blockbuster or a failure. "Shamshera found a lot of people hating on it; some of the hate came from people who didn't even watch it. I find it horrible that people don't respect the hard work we all put in. I admire Karan as a filmmaker, and mostly as a person. He is one of the best directors I have worked with in my long career of four decades. He has the knack of giving characters that strike a chord. We did that with Agneepath, where he gave me KanchaCheena to play. The process of working on it was brilliant. He trusted me again with Shamshera and what a ball of a time we had making this film, and bringing to life Shuddh Singh," his statement added. "Karan is like family and success or failure aside, it will always be an honour to work with him. I stand by him always," he further wrote. Sanjay Dutt also shared that the film has given him several memorable moments with co-star Ranbir Kapoor which he will cherish forever. Dutt concluded by saying that it pains to see how netizens are trolling and spreading hatred on social media about the movie, without considering the hard work that has been put in its making. "Shamshera will find its tribe someday but until it does, I stand resolute with the film, the memories we created, the bond we shared, the laughs we had, the hardships we went through. I thank the whole unit - cast and crew of the film who stayed with the film for four years, through the pandemic, through my own personal rough times. Ranbir and I have forged a bond for life with this film. His craft and ability to depict emotionality on screen is par excellence. It pains to see how people are so eager to spew hatred on the work of one of the most hardworking and talented actors of our times. Art and our commitment for it transcends the hate coming our way. The love we feel for the film and its people goes beyond everything that's being said. Baakikuchtoh log kahenge, k a a m h a i k e h n a ! ShamsheraOurs," he wrote.

Complaint Filed Against Ranveer Singh

Mumbai, July 28 : After an FIR at Chembur Police Station, a complaint has been filed with the Maharashtra State Commission for Women against Ranveer Singh for his nude photo shoot. Advocate Ashish Rai has said in the complaint that the nude photoshoot was done by actor Ranveer Singh, and it was circulated through social media. After which, an FIR has already been registered against the actor Chembur police station under IPC and IT Act. The complainant says that the way the pictures have been made viral through social media, it is definitely against the dignity of women and children. Therefore, keeping in mind the seriousness of the matter, notice should be issued to actor Ranveer Singh on behalf of the commission, and this controversial photo should be deleted from social media. Through the complaint, a demand has also been made to the Women's Commission to take action under suomotu cognizance. Last week, the Gully Boy actor took social media by storm as he posed naked for a magazine. While many applauded the actor's bold avatar, several others trolled the actor and now legal complaints are being filed against Ranveer. An FIR has been lodged against the actor in addition to more police complaints, taking cognizance of a complaint filed against him at Mumbai's Chembur police station. The FIR has been filed under section 67A of the IT Act along with sections 292, 293, 354 and 509 of the Indian Penal Code for hurting sentiments and insulting the modesty of women. Lalit Tekchandani, who represents an NGO called ShyamMangaram foundation which has been in existence for almost six years in Chembur, in central suburban Mumbai, spoke to News18.com and explained, "Many women and children approached us saying that what Ranveer Singh has done with the photo shoot is against our society norms. We saw many nude photographs of the actor being clicked and he promoted it on his social media in such a manner that any male or female would feel ashamed about it. We realised that such an act should be strongly opposed and this is why we decided to file a complaint and FIR."

Kiccha Sudeep Talks About Directing Salman Khan

Mumbai, July 28 : Actor KicchaSudeep saw the release of his much-anticipated film Vikrant Rona today, July 28. His Dabangg 3 co-star Salman Khan presented the Hindi version of the multilingual actioner under his banner Salman Khan Films. Salman was also present during the pre-premiere event and promoted the film. Now, in a recent interview, Sudeep opened up about working with Khan. Last year he revealed his plans to direct Salman in a feature film. In a recent chat with Pinkvilla, he confirmed that he is thinking in that direction and something is underway. "The process just started last year and wait for some more time. I have to tell him the story, then he has to say a yes and then tell the time of coming to set. With Salman Bhai, it's going to be like that. He is so busy with so many people writing for him. We keep discussing and it will happen at the right time," the publication quoted him as saying. "He has definitely seen the show reels which was around 18 minutes long before coming on board the film. He was impressed and has been linked with us since then. I share a bond with him and have an equation. I didn't go asking him, once he got to know that I am tapping the Hindi market, he said, 'I am there for you'. It's a very big thing. He is a big star, earning money left right and center," the actor added. He also shared that Salman was there for him and he did best for his film. Directed by AnupBhandari, Vikrant Rona also stars NirupBhandari, Neetha Ashok, and Jacqueline Fernandez. News18's review of the film read, "Vikrant Rona is about Sudeep's heroics and how he becomes the messiah of the entire village. His action sequences are super solid and are one of the major selling points of this film. Since Vikrant Rona is majorly shot indoors, it has its own shortcomings there. There's not much you will get to see in the film in terms of locations other than a dense forest and a waterfall. The VFX of the film is decent but not as great as we have seen in recent South films."

Mumbai, July 28 : Anushka Sharma's alleged pregnancy news is the talk of the town. So, Anushka, ViratKohli and Vamika Kohli recently returned from their vacation in Maldives. Anushka has been sharing some uber-hot pictures from her cool vacation. A couple of days ago, Anushka Sharma, Vamika and Virat returned from their vacation and guess what? It was reported that they went straight to a hospital. Yes, you read that right. And soon, speculations about Anushka's second pregnancy started floating around in the media. What's the truth? Anushka Sharma and ViratKohli headed straight to a hospital after arrival, as per the reports. Fans started teasing them/trolling them in a way that they went straight to the doctor after their vacation. Netizens started speculating about Virushka planning a sibling for Vamika. Well, that's not true. A report in ETimes has confirmed that Anushka's visit to a hospital was to see a physiotherapist and nothing else, as the rumours suggest. Anushka had visited KokilabenAmbani Hospital, for those not in the know. Well, as y'all know Anushka is making her comeback in Bollywood after a short maternity break and the pandemic. Anushka Sharma will be seen essaying the role of Indian cricketer and former captain of Indian's Women Cricketing team. The film is titled Chakda Xpress and will be produced under the banner of Clean Slate Filmz headed by her brother Kamesh. As

Kim Kardashian's Advice To Pete Davidson

London, July 28 : Kim Kardashian's shot and heavy romance with boyfriend Pete Davidson, 28, is set to unfold in the upcoming season 2 of The Kardashians. And although the hilarious former SNL star is a pro when it comes to filming for TV, he has mastered the art of filming a reality television show - herself! "Doing 'The Kardashians' was different for Pete because he is not playing a character," one source told us. "He found it difficult in the beginning because he isn't always funny all the time. Pete has a very serious side to him and this is not what his fans know of generally. He was just not sure if this is what would fly for the show since he thought that they were all counting on him to be the comedian that he is." Apparently, this is not what they were expecting of him, after all. "Kim told him that he doesn't have to be funny all the time. That is not why she loves him," the source told us. "Kim reassured him that he will be fine and just to pretend that the cameras are not there. She knows that Pete is a genuine and kind person and that, no matter what, audiences would be able to see this as well." As Hollywood Life previously reported, Pete was on the fence about filming with Kim, as he didn't want their relationship to be affected by living their life in front of cameras. And although Kim did not push him into filming, a second source told us that she was delighted that he ultimately decided to join her family's show. "Kim loves that Pete wanted to be on the show with her and she's so proud of how cute and funny he is," the source said. "He's been super easy-going about whatever Kim wants to share about their relationship on the show, even their Facetime calls and messages are fair game." So what other advice did Kim give Pete prior to filming for season 2, which premieres on September 22 on Hulu? "The only advice she really gave him was to just have fun and be himself," the source said. "Other than that, she just let it happen naturally. The sweetest part about it is that Pete doing the show because he wants to be as much a part of Kim's world as he can, it's definitely strengthened their bond."

Amar Upadhyay to enter SurabhiDas's show NimaDenzongpa?

Mumbai, July 28 : Popular daily soap NimaDenzongpa has managed to grab eyeballs and has been entertaining the audience for some time now. Adding a new twist to the story, there will soon be a new entry in the show. As per ETimes TV seasoned actor, Amar Upadhyay, who was recently seen in Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2 will be seen in the show in a prominent role. Sources close to the show informed that Amar has signed the show and will be seen in a very strong role in NimaDenzongpa. His role is very different which he has not done in recent times and who entered the show in January, is leaving the show very soon. Iqbal's track is over and the actor is happy that he got an opportunity to play an interesting role. Molki actor had earlier opened up on his fallout with Ekta Kapoor and leaving the show Kyunki Saas Bhi Kabhi Bahu Thi. He said, "I told her to give me three-four months more, but she was not ready to wait without Mihir.

Courtney Cox Seen on Set Of 'Scream 6'

London, July 28 : Courtney Cox confirmed in July 2020 that she would reprise her role of reporter Gale Weathers in Scream 5, 24 years after starring in the original film. Then, shortly after the well-received release of the film in January, the next Scream sequel was confirmed, with Courtney, 58, ready to come back again. Now, the first images of her on set in Montreal, Canada have been captured. The photographs, which were obtained by the Daily Mail and can be seen here, show the actress looking smart in a light blue pantsuit practicing live shots with a microphone in hand outside of what appeared to be city hall. She paired the fashionable outfit with lime green heels. Courtney has returned for each Scream film, but Scream 6 will be missing one of its key original cast members: Neve Campbell, who played Sidney Prescott in the previous five movies. "Sadly, I won't be making the next Scream film," Nevesaid in a statement to Hollywood Life on June 6. "As a woman I have had to work extremely hard in my career to establish my value, especially when it comes to Scream. I felt the offer that was presented to me did not equate to the value I have brought to the franchise." She continued, "It's been a very difficult decision to move on. To all my Scream fans, I love you. You've always been so incredibly supportive to me. I'm forever grateful to you and to what this franchise has given me over the past 25 years." Some of Neve's former co-stars reacted to her declination of the role and supported her decision. "I'd love for her to be a part of it. A Scream movie without Sidney is kind of unfortunate, but I understand her decision," David Arquette, 50, said during an interview with Comic Bookon June 6. "It's all a business in a way, they have to balance all these elements to fit a budget and produce a film. I get it, she's still alive!" he continued.

"She [can] absolutely be in future ones, but I think it's up to fans to call for that in the future. I respect her decision, for sure." David is one of the original Scream actors, and his character, Dewey Riley, was brutally murdered by Ghostface with two knives in the fifth film, marking his exit from the franchise. Sarah Michelle Gellar, 45, who appeared in Scream 2 as Cici, also weighed in on the situation. "Neve is a really smart, amazing human and I'm sure that for whatever reason, whether personal or professional, I'm sure she had a very valid reason because she loves her audience and she loves her fans and she's very proud of those movies," she told Hollywood Life EXCLUSIVELY on June 24.

Japanese Encephalitis Claims Another

from Kampur, Kathiatoli and Kasuwa of Nagaon district. So far, it has claimed over 44 lives across Assam, according to National Health Mission Assam. In the month of July itself 274 JE cases has been reported in Assam. Due to the rising cases of JE, NHM Assam has issued several guidelines to tackle the situation. As per the data by the Ministry of Health and Welfare of the Government of India, 660 deaths due to JE have been reported in Assam from 2015 to 2021. Japanese Encephalitis is a disease that spreads through infected mosquito bites. It mostly spreads in rural areas. The onset of monsoon season and flood has triggered to mosquito breeding in the state. The common symptoms of JE are high fever, headache, neck stiffness, disorientation, coma and seizures. NHM Assam has issued few preventive measures which includes, wearing light coloured with long sleeve clothing and trousers, use of mosquito nets while sleeping, not allowing water to accumulate in the empty containers, avoid going to areas with water accumulation during dusk and dawn as the mosquitoes are more active in those times.

provided shelter to an absconding Bangladeshi national named Mehbub, who is a core member of the ABT. He also provided a SIM card and logistical support to Mehbub. We are checking if Ali is linked to any more people from the ABT," said Luna Sonowal, Additional Superintendent of Police, Bongaigaon Assam. "Mehbub is a key member of the ABT who had provided training and was involved in radicalisation. We are looking to reach Mehbub through Ali. Mehbub trained youths from the area in psychological warfare, made them read religious documents and provided physical exercise. He helped shape up the first level of sleeper cell in the area," said Sonowal. So far, eight suspected terrorists have been apprehended from Bongaigaon district. The police have recovered incriminating jihadi literature in Urdu used for radicalisation.

sources said. The Board of Secondary Education in Assam (SEBA) has developed a mobile application for the benefit of school students, Education Minister Ranaj Pegu stated. The app will have online lessons, question banks and worksheets, among other features, all of which will help students get information beyond what is covered in school syllabus, the minister said. Pegu further mentioned that the education department has been exploring digital education mechanisms in keeping with the growing use of technology in all spheres of life. Speaking at the launch of two mobile phone applications by SEBA, Pegu said technology and digital means are being adopted to ensure greater benefits for students. He maintained that his department was working towards implementation of digital education and was developing necessary infrastructure for it. The minister further stated that teachers will be able to teach, evaluate and do marking. "In the course curriculum, there is a part of spoken English that carries 10 marks. Teachers earlier used to subjectively allot marks on spoken English. But now, the mobile app will do everything, teaching, evaluating and marking," said Pegu.

CM Dr. Sarma attends 2nd NE

North Eastern region. The state has the reputation of being an industrial state because of its prolific tea, oil, coal and tourism industry. Assam is one of the biodiversity hot spots of the country with its 312 notified reserve forests, five national parks and 20 wildlife sanctuaries. Taking into consideration its well-established petro-chemical industry, the state can take the lead in producing green plastics which are in huge demand in developed markets. He also said that Assam is a home to some of the rarest wildlife species in the world along with rich flora and fauna which offer immense scope for wildlife tourism and investment. The Chief Minister also said that the organic products of the state such as ginger, lemon, bhut jolokia, red rice, black rice, joha, pineapple, orange, jackfruit, banana etc have huge export potential. Dr. Sarma said that the improved connectivity between India and South East Asian nations has benefited North eastern region greatly. He said that the bilateral and multilateral connectivity initiatives like the Trilateral Highway that goes from India to Thailand via Myanmar has given rise to a new hope. He also said that the survey and planning work on the Imphal-Moreh Railway line is underway. The setting up of the North East Economic corridor connecting markets in Bangladesh and the ASEAN region is also being actively contemplated to give a fillip to trade and commerce. Pointing to the illegal movement of goods from across the border, Dr. Sarma advocated for reworking on the custom tariff system for the mutual development of all. Thanking ICC and Union Ministry for External Affairs for organizing the meet, the Chief Minister said that event will help in making NE a vibrant economy which would also be helpful in facilitating collective development of the region. The meet which was organized with focussed countries like Bangladesh, Bhutan, Thailand and Laos would also help in creating an enabling environment for the stakeholders to showcase their inherent strength before the buyers. The meet will also be a way forward towards reviving the age-old ties between North East and its neighbours. Union Minister of State for External Affairs Dr. Rajkumar Ranjan Singh, Member NEC A.K. Gogoi also spoke during the inaugural ceremony of the meet.

Sarma further said that the nation and its people would remain forever grateful to Tarun Ram Phukan for his contribution towards the freedom struggle. "To honour this great son of Bharat Mata for his contribution towards the national freedom struggle, we (the Government of Assam) we last year decided to celebrate this day of every year as Deshbhakti Divas. I am confident initiatives such as this would act as motivation for the youths to dedicate their lives towards national interests," the Chief Minister added. The Chief Minister further stated that Tarun Ram Phukan, a political analyst, impactful orator, a skilled hunter and a literary figure, together with Nabin Chandra Bardoloi and Chandranath Sarma, played significant role in joining Assam with the mainstream national struggle of that period. "During Mahatma Gandhi's visit to Assam, Tarun Ram Phukan accompanied the national leader to various locations within the state. Tarun Ram Phukan travelled to nooks and corners of Assam to raise the awareness of the people against imperial rule," Dr. Sarma stated, adding: "Deshbhakta Tarun Ram Phukan believed that Swaraj (self-rule) would be a potent weapon to empower the nation and its people. He worked towards achieving that end throughout his life." Tarun Ram Phukan's grandchild Dr. Hemendra Ram Phukan and Information & Public Relations Department Commissioner & Secretary Diganta Barah also delivered speeches at today's event. IPRD Minister Pijush Hazarika, Mayor of Guwahati Municipal Corporation Mrigen Sarania, Director of Information & Public Relations Bishnu Kamal Bora, Tarun Ram Phukan's grandson Jiten Ram Phukan, granddaughter Indrani Baruah, among others, were also present.

scam accused Partha Chatterjee as a minister. "I have removed Partha Chatterjee as a minister. My party takes strict action. There are many plans behind it, but I don't want to go into details," West Bengal CM said. Her remarks came minutes after the West Bengal government removed Partha Chatterjee, who has been arrested by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in a school jobs scam, from the ministry with immediate effect. "Partha Chatterjee, minister in charge, department of industry, commerce and enterprises, department of information technology and electronics, department of parliamentary affairs and department of public enterprises and industrial reconstruction, is hereby relieved of his duties as MIC of the aforesaid department with immediate effect," an official order said. Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee later said at a government event here that she will look after the portfolios held by Chatterjee for the time being. The ED had arrested Chatterjee, who is also the Trinamool Congress secretary-general, on July 23 in connection with its investigation into alleged irregularities in the recruitment drives by the School Service Commission (SSC). The central agency has also arrested Chatterjee's close associate Arpita Mukherjee and seized crores of rupees from her houses in different parts of the city.

28 MLAs Issued Reminders for Vacating

MLAs. He said that 18 MLAs have already vacated the quarters which have been dismantled. "Two more quarters will be dismantled soon and six more legislators informed that they will hand over the keys of their quarters by this week," Das said. He further stated that 28 legislators are yet to vacate the quarters. These quarters will be dismantled from August 1 and for that electricity and water supply will be disconnected on July 31 midnight, the reminder letter states. Meanwhile, some MLAs, especially from the Congress, expressed inability to vacate their quarters saying that they need more time to find rented accommodation.

Tea Production Down By 20 % Due

50 from the price of the last year. This is because of the strong demand for orthodox tea from exporters," he added. Following the collapse of the Sri Lankan economy, foreign buyers have diverted their purchases to the Indian market, he further said. "In recent times, we have seen a number of tea manufacturers diverting their production from CTC to orthodox and they are getting good prices for this change. Sri Lanka produces 300 million kg of tea, of which they export 286 million kg which constitutes 95 per cent orthodox tea," the GTABA secretary stated. "India produces only 92.6 million kg out of which 33 million kg are produced in Assam. It is now believed that the orthodox grade might see a better demand and fetch good prices in the upcoming season," he added.

the heavyweight leader of Trinamool, who contested from Behala West constituency in 2021, said the following: 1 lakh 48 thousand 676 rupees in cash. At the same time, he has 24 lakh 81 thousand, 23 lakh 32 thousand 935, 15 lakh 1 thousand 161 and 1 lakh 8 thousand 69 in 4 branches of the two banks. A life insurance policy of Rs. 25 lakhs in his name. Life insurance, bank deposits together with his savings of 90 lakh 94 thousand 863! Parth informed the Election Commission, he does not own a single car. He also does not have any agricultural land purchased from family sources or from his own earnings. Partha said that he has a house in family sources. That house is in Naktala. The name is 'Vijayketan'. Incidentally, Partha was arrested by the ED from that house last Saturday. Partha said in the affidavit that he got the house on one and a half katha land from his father. The house was built in 1989. 6 lakh rupees were spent to build the house. However, according to 2021 prices, that house costs Rs. 25 lakhs. Partha also claimed in the affidavit that he does not have any gold-diamond-platinum jewellery. Apart from this, the affidavit submitted by Partha says that there is no loan in his name anywhere. In addition, he also informed that his total income in the financial year 2019-20 was 5 lakh 39 thousand 720. According to Parth's affidavit, the total immovable property of Parth is 90 lakh 94 thousand 863 rupees. After Partha's name was implicated in the recruitment corruption case, he was recently arrested by the ED. Although nothing special was recovered from his house, the ED claims that from two flats of Partha Chatterjee's 'Intimate Friend' Arpita they recovered around 49.8 crores.

Knee operation puts Chris Woakes' T20 World Cup prospects in doubt

Paris, July 28 : Chris Woakes is to undergo a knee operation on Thursday in an attempt to resuscitate his chances of appearing at the Twenty20 World Cup, which starts in October. He was one of two players - and the only bowler - to be in the England squad for the T20 World Cup in the United Arab Emirates as well as the Ashes in Australia from November to January and a Test tour of the Caribbean. Woakes returned from the West Indies in March with injuries to his shoulder and his knee and has since reported a minor problem with an ankle. He has played one second XI match this summer. He was initially told to take "a bit of a break", but doctors now suspect there is a problem with the cartilage of his left knee that will require surgery. Recovery if the operation is successful is expected to take between four and six weeks, leaving him with a battle to prove his fitness before the seven T20s England have scheduled in Pakistan in September as part of their World Cup preparations. It is the second time in less than a week that an England seamer has felt forced to undergo surgery to try to win a place on the plane to Australia after Mark Wood - who had an operation on his right elbow in March - had a second procedure on the same joint last weekend. Four other England bowlers - Jofra Archer, Olly Stone, Saqib

'Sad I won't be there': Dina Asher-Smith out of Commonwealth Games

London, July 28 : Dina Asher-Smith has pulled out of the Commonwealth Games after injuring her left hamstring during the world championships and now faces a race against time to defend her three European titles in Munich next month. Asher-Smith, who won bronze over 200m in Eugene, was expected to be one of Team England's biggest names in Birmingham, but on Wednesday she said:

"Unfortunately, I've got a slight hamstring strain and won't be ready to race next week at the Commonwealth Games. "I love racing in front of a British crowd and was so excited to return to Birmingham, so I'm sad that I won't be there." Asher-Smith, who won gold and bronze in the Gold Coast in 2018, was due to compete in the women's 100m and 4x100m relay. She added: "No major worries and nothing to worry about. I feel good but I'm in need of a few days off." It is the second hamstring injury Asher-Smith has suffered in the past year. Six weeks before the Tokyo Olympics she was in crutches after picking up an injury on her right leg but was able to recover in time for the Games after a visit to the controversial German doctor Hans-Wilhelm Müller-Wohlfahrt. This time her injury sounds less severe, but she will have less than three weeks to be fit for the defence of her 100m crown in Munich. Müller-Wohlfahrt, who has worked with many of the world's best athletes, has been criticised in the past for using unconventional techniques such as injecting calves' blood, honey and extracts from the crests of cockerels into his patients. However, at the Olympics last year, Asher-Smith said her treatment had focused on extensive physio and rehab exercises and had got her back in shape quicker than she had expected. Kelly Sotherton, Team England's Team Leader for athletics at Birmingham 2022, said she was disappointed at the news. "It's obviously really sad to lose Dina through injury, given her stature and standing as one of the best female athletes in the world. "We know just how much she was looking forward to being part of Team England at a home Games in Birmingham.

Barcelona close to beating Chelsea to Jules Koundé after agreeing •50m fee

Barcelona, July 28 : Barcelona are close to beating Chelsea to the signing of Jules Koundé after agreeing a •50m fee with Sevilla for the France defender. Chelsea thought they had won the race to sign Koundé last week, but Thomas Tuchel will have to shift his focus to other defensive targets after Barça derailed his transfer plans once again. Wesley Fofana is one option for Tuchel, though Leicester will not allow the 21-year-old centre-back to leave unless they receive a huge bid for him. Leicester have plenty of leverage after handing the Frenchman a new five-year deal in March. Brendan Rodgers needs to sell players before making signings this summer, but it is understood that the club will demand at least £70m if Chelsea make a move for Fofana. The asking price could even be as high as £85m, which is how much Leicester managed to hold out for when they sold the England centre-back Harry Maguire to Manchester United in 2019. Chelsea could be reluctant to pay a large fee for Fofana given that he missed much of last season after sustaining a broken leg last summer. The defender, who enjoyed an impressive first year in England after Leicester signed him from St Étienne for £36.5m in October 2020, returned from his injury in March. The worry for Tuchel is that Chelsea's new regime is struggling to respond to losing Antonio Rüdiger to Real Madrid and Andreas Christensen to Barcelona this summer. Chelsea have strengthened their defence by signing Kalidou Koulibaly from Napoli, however they lost out to Bayern Munich in the battle to sign Matthijs de Ligt from Juventus, failed to buy Nathan Aké from Manchester City and have made little progress in talks with Paris Saint-Germain over Presnel Kimpembe. The latest blow for Chelsea is missing out on Koundé, who can play as a right-sided centre-back, a right-back and a right wing-back. They had been interested in the 23-year-old since last year and were willing to meet Sevilla's demands for a £55m fee. However Barça, who have already beaten Chelsea to the signing of the Brazilian winger Raphinha from Leeds, have refused to give up on Koundé despite appearing to have dropped out of the race last Friday. The Catalans have experienced major financial problems, but they have used economic levers to raise their transfer budget. Barça's manager, Xavi

Hernandez, has made Koundé a priority signing. Chelsea, who shortlisted the RB Leipzig defender Josko Gvardiol, Atlético Madrid's José María Giménez, Internazionale's Milan Skriniar and Villarreal's Pau Torres at the start of the summer, are frustrated with Barcelona's behaviour. They could respond by blocking Xavi's attempts to sign Cesar Azpilicueta and Marcos Alonso.

Bairstow and Moeen provide fireworks as England sink South Africa in first T20

Bristol, July 28 : On a postage-stamp ground where the bowlers mustered few special deliveries and the batters sent most of their messages by air mail, there was one particularly memorable arrival. England eventually romped to victory by 41 runs, but even on a night when Moeen Ali scored England's fastest ever half-century in the format and Jonny Bairstow played his way to 90, the most memorable contribution came from South Africa's Tristan Stubbs, a 21-year-old playing his first international innings. Fully 120 of England's 234 runs came from sixes, their 20 maximums more than they had ever scored before, or South Africa had conceded. With the tourists further spirited by a series of failures in the field - even discounting the one Heinrich Klaasen lost in its flight and allowed to float over his head, Bairstow was dropped three times - their run chase seemed destined to be forlorn. But for long periods it was also quite a lot of fun, with Reeza Hendricks scoring a half-century off 28 balls - positively pedestrian in this company - and Stubbs, who instantly found a beautiful seam of form and kept coming up with diamonds, facing the same number of balls and scoring 72. England seemed to have no way of controlling him, and with the second game of the series coming in Cardiff on Thursday they do not have long to produce some fresh ideas. "I'm sure we're going to have some plans and talk about him tonight," Moeen said. "Hopefully that won't happen again this series." Four of the first 11 deliveries the debutant faced went for six and his half-century came off only 19 balls, just three more than Moeen's. For as long as he remained at the crease South Africa had a chance of victory. "During training he's shown us what he can do so we weren't really surprised," Lungi Ngidi said of Stubbs's display. "He's a very, very confident chap. We're happy he got a chance to show the world what he's capable of." But with those present scenting an explosive finale, England's death bowling proved decisive and after Chris Jordan leaked only four runs from the 18th over and Stubbs fell to the first ball of the next, South Africa's innings rapidly unravelled. At the toss Jos Buttler had called this "the start proper" of his side's T20 World Cup campaign, and by the time they next play a 50-over game it will be November and that tournament will be over. It was a toss that Buttler yet again lost - he is now 8-2 since taking over the captaincy last month, and is on a statistically improbable run of seven successive losses - and David Miller decided it would be wise on this small ground to see precisely how much carnage their opponents could create before his side had to judge the pace of their own innings. The answer in this case was plenty. It took a while for England to really get going, but when they did it was savage - at one point they scored 81 off just four overs as Bairstow and Moeen hit their stride and their opponents lost their bearings. Bairstow, rewarded for his phenomenal form so far this summer with a roar from the crowd as he made his way to the crease, surfed a wave of form and fortune to reach 90 off 53 before Rilee Rossouw finally held one in the final over. He appeared completely untroubled by the injury to his left knee, which was wrapped in ice as soon as the game concluded. But it was Moeen, who ended with 52 off 18, who nudged England's total beyond South Africa's reach.

Popp double fires Germany past France to set up Wembley final with England

London, July 28 : England against Germany in a European Championship final at a sold-out Wembley. Loved, hated, it is a tie that draws the attention of the host nation like no other, in any sport, in any arena. Despite an at times scintillating display from France, who came from behind for the first time at the Euros, two goals from Alex Popp earned Germany a semi-final win to pit England against the eight-time champions on Sunday night and confirm a narrative that felt inevitable from the moment England and Germany topped their respective groups unbeaten. The Germans were without their influential forward Klara Bühl, who had tested positive for Covid in the buildup to the semi-final, but a patient performance from the not infallible looking Germany denied France a taste of victory in the team's maiden Euros semi-final. The Germany manager, Martina Voss-Tecklenburg, promised a footballing spectacle and had warned of the threat posed by France and the ability of the team's players to "find good solutions to get out of pressure". They are "really really good," she added, almost as if to temper the expectations of German fans and the German media. In the buildup to the semi-final, newspaper Süddeutsche Zeitung ran with the headline "Eight-nil" in reference to Germany's eight European titles to France's none. "They focus on their play in transition because they have a lot of pace in their team and direct Amandine Henry would strip the sheen from their challenge and spoke to discord in the player pool available for the national team. Come the tournament though, the narrative has been very different. A swagging fast-paced picking apart of Italy in their Group D opener suggested that perhaps managed to live up to their potential, would be among the favourites to win this tournament. "That was the narrative of many prior to the tournament's kick-off in England. The France manager, Corinne Diacre, who collected her first cap in 1993 when her opposite number, Voss-Tecklenburg, had already lifted two European Championship trophies and would collect two more in the next four years, has proven divisive. The decision to leave out the Lyon duo Eugénie Le Sommer and Champions League final goalscorer many were writing off France too soon. A dominant but wasteful display against the Netherlands forced them to extra time at the quarter-final stage where new Chelsea signing Eve Pérésset's penalty was the difference. That extra 30 minutes would be added to the two days of extra rest the Germans would be afforded before the semi-final. In a buzzing Stadium MK, this was a chess match between the fluid French and gritty Germans, who have style up top through Lina Magull and Svenja Huth.

French opener Gustav McKeon hits another T20I century, breaks multiple records

Paris, July 28 : France opener Gustav McKeon has scripted history again with another terrific century at the Europe T20 World Cup 2024 Sub-Regionals. McKeon smashed five fours and eight sixes in his 53-ball 101 against Norway on Wednesday. France defeated Norway by 11 runs. The swashbuckling opener becomes the first man to hit consecutive centuries in the T20I format. Earlier, Gustav McKeon became the first teenager to score a T20I century in men's cricket. McKeon smoked a 61-ball 109 against Switzerland in Vantaa. His knock was studded with five fours and nine sixes. It was only the second international match for the youngster. He also broke the record of Azhar Andani who had made 46, 100 and 81 in his first three innings for Portugal last year. McKeon was the only one who starred for the French with the bat and he also grabbed three wickets with his medium-fast bowling and helped his team to defend 158 runs. McKeon is the highest run-getter (286 runs) in the first three T20I innings of his career. Portugal's Andani stands second with 227 runs, Czech Republic's Sabawoon Davizi is at third place with 208 runs in the list.

Lionesses' instantly iconic backheel goal can be catalyst for so much more

London, July 28 : Chelsea's Sam Kerr called it "lit". Conservative MP Tracey Crouch called it "pure filth" (in a good way). If you're looking for a standout moment in a breakthrough tournament, Alessia Russo's backheeled nutmeg goal - the third for England against Sweden on Tuesday night - is not a bad place to start. Russo, the Lionesses' supersub, has scored four goals in the women's European Championship to date. This was of a different order, a fierce shot saved by the Swedish keeper Hedvig Lindahl had seen the ball apparently squared off by two defenders only for the 23-year-old to slam her heel through it, sending it through two sets of legs and into the net. Edited with added hip-hop commentary - "I take the ball, shoot, I miss it ... sike, I swished it!" - Russo's impudent strike has been viewed 900,000 times on BBC Sport's TikTok account. On Twitter, the figure is over 2m. Meanwhile, in more traditional media settings, the BBC report a figure of 9.3m viewers watching the game on BBC One (that goes up by another 2m when you add online streams). This contrasts with a peak audience of 980,000 viewers watching England play India at Twenty20 cricket on BBC Two last weekend. Russo herself described the goal as being the upshot of a decision to find "the quickest route for me to get this ball in the back of the net". The Manchester United player, who now has 172,000 Instagram followers, confirmed she doesn't often score goals in such an unconventional manner and that "I don't think you'll see one again". It was certainly significant, however. "To score in a semi-final and progress to the final is a huge highlight of my career," she said. The England squad returned from Sheffield to their base in south-west London on Wednesday with news helicopters tracking their coach. The players now rest up before making preparations for a Wembley final at 5pm on Sunday. The England coach, Sarina Wiegman, who has shown herself to be as decisive a performer as any of the players on the field in these past few weeks, has said her team is "ready to write history" by becoming the first England women's team, and the second national side, to win a major tournament. But with

"football's coming home" now echoing once again across the country, she observed the broader significance that victory might achieve. "We said before the tournament and throughout that we want to inspire the nation, I think that's what we're doing and making a difference. The whole country is proud of us and even more girls and boys will want to play football." The video of eight-year-old Tess Dolan dancing in the stands of Bramall Lane after the Sweden match, another viral cut-through, seemed to symbolise the moment a lifelong engagement with sport and an active life could begin. "Going through my mind was, when I'm older I want to be a footballer," she told BBC Breakfast. "I was looking at how they were celebrating and thinking of how I was going to celebrate." But 10 years after the Olympics arrived in London, a question of legacy now arises again. Can this public engagement, affection in fact, lead to more people in general and more girls in particular taking up the national game? BBC pundit Ian Wright said after the semi-final that "if girls are not now allowed to play football in their PE lessons just like the boys are, then what are we doing?" The words of the former England men's international speak to the fact that, currently, less than half of the country's secondary schools offer girls the opportunity to play football as part of the curriculum. Research compiled by the FA showed that while only a third of girls aged 5-18 participated in football each week, 91% of those without access through PE did want to play. "What we're trying to break here is years of tradition, decades of tradition where football has been on offer for boys and therefore taught by male PE specialists," says Louise Gear, the FA's head of development. "There are fewer female PE specialists that are actually trained and competent to teach football. So there's a confidence and a competence challenge that schools do face. That's the biggest barrier right now." A lack of teaching has consequences for female participation in football more broadly, Gear says. "This isn't about competing with other sports, this is about equality and girls being able to access football as the boys are," she says. "What we find more often than not in secondary schools is that sports that are taught in PE and games lessons are the sports that feature in after-school clubs and competitions. The school then sets up representative sides. They then start to compete against other schools in the local area. It's a domino effect." The FA currently runs an in-school training programme for teachers, supported by Barclays, but also has another scheme that starts at a younger age. Shooting Stars, which is run in association with Disney, looks to make primary school girls confident enough to engage with the sport in the playground, a place still consistently dominated by boys.

England and Wales confirmed as hosts of Women's T20 World Cup in 2026

London, July 28 : England and Wales will host the 2026 Women's T20 World Cup, the International Cricket Council has confirmed. With four major tournaments announced from 2024 to 2027, England will host the competition for the first time since the inaugural event in 2009. Although venues are yet to be confirmed, the competition will take place in June with the finals expanded from 10 to 12 nations, meaning a total of 33 fixtures will be played. "We're absolutely delighted that we've been selected to host the ICC Women's T20 World Cup 2026," said Clare Connor, interim chief executive of the England and Wales Cricket Board. "We saw back in 2017 how hosting the ICC Women's Cricket World Cup captured people's imagination and I'll never forget watching Heather Knight lift the trophy on that magical day at a sold-out Lord's. "With the women's international calendar now mapped out for the next five years, the ICC also confirmed the other host nations for upcoming events. Bangladesh will host a major women's tournament for the first time when they stage the T20 World Cup in 2024, with India then the location for the Women's World Cup a year later.
